CHILDREN ILL FROM POOR VENTILATION.

The lack of ventilation in the public schoolhouse of Hillsdale is the cause of much concern to parents, who are making a vigorous protest against the continuation of a condition so threatening to the health of their children. The building was erected three years ago, on the edge of a swampy wood near the Methodiet Church, and ever since it has been occupled, especially during cold weather, a number of the pupils have been afflicted with severe sore throat, fever, blood-poisoning and eruptions, all of which are attributed to the vitiated atmosphere of the schoolroom, where about seventy-five children are taught. Ten cases of this nature have been reported, in the families of W. H. Dennis, W. H. Farrand, R. W. Jepson, James Monfort, C. A. Follet and J. H. Reidly. One death is attributed to bloodpoisoning contracted in the schoolroom. The doc-tors at first diagnosed some of the cases as scarlet fever or diphtheretic sore throat, but the symptoms and conditions were all so similar that the cause was traced to the school, as the patients improved after a few days at home. The building is heated by steam, and has no means of ventilation except in opening the windows. W. H. Dennis addressed a letter to the Board of Education asking that action be taken to provide proper ventilation. The letter was laid on the table proper ventilation. The letter was laid on the table without comment. Now Mr. Dennis is circulating a petition, which is being largely signed, requesting prompt action. This will be presented to the Board at its next meeting.

District Clerk W. W. Banta admitted that the building was defective in ventilation, but said the Board could do nothing unless the people would vote money; this some of them will not do unless forced by the County Superintendent, who last week condemned two school buildings in Harrington Township and ordered their State appropriation withheld unless they should take steps to put up proper buildings. The Hilsdale people who are represented on the petition will appeal to the superintendent as a lost resort.

MUSIC DOWN IN MAINE.

From The Lewiston Journal.

Encouraging reports come from the Penobscot Indian brass band, though Joseph Nicola does not say that for a welding dance no music exceeds the mellow thrash of the shot horn.

was no hope of getting a favorable decision there or anywhere else, but the plan of the rascals was to fight off imprisonment until popular indignation had cooled, and then they could get the Court of Pardons to save them. As soon as Judge Lippincott heard of this scheme to get the cases on the overcrowded calendars of the Federal courts he sent constables out to corrai the convicted men. It was evening when they were brought to court, and Judge Lippincott told them that they must now go to jail. They were hurried off in coaches and locked up without interference. Five months later the Court of Pardons turned the whole crowd loose without any reason whatever except that the bosses, at whose bidding the crooked work had been done, were still powerful and well intrenched. The ring swore to balance acounts sooner or later with Judge Lippincott, but did not dare make a hostile move against him when Governor Werts promoted him to the Supreme Court. That act, it is generally conceded, was one of the most creditable of all the Werts regime. Judge Lippincott's face looks like a mild edition of Caesar's. In the discharge of his judicial duties he is stern and unflinching, but personally none could be more courteous or sociable. So far as can be judged by the manner in which he has comported himself, Judge Lippincott has never been afflicted with egomania or its Jersey equivalent, the "swelled head." Judge Lippincott was born in Burlington County fifty-three years ago. He was reared on his father's farm and attended the private and public schools. He graduated from the Harvard University Law School in 1807 and was admitted to the New-Jersey bar. He settled in Hudson County, and held various offices. In 1886 President Cleveland appointed him United States District-Attorney for this State. A year later he resigned on his appointed him to the vacant seat on the Supreme Court bench. ### ANOTHER HOLD-UP NEAR RIVER EDGE.

Thomas Zabriskie, a prominent resident of Spring Valley, was attacked by two men on the road lead-ing from River Edge to Spring Valley early yester-day and relieved of his overcoat, watch and chain and a small sum of money. Zabriskie had been to New-York and returned home on the theatre train which reached River Edge about 1:15 o'clock, and started home, a distance of a mile and a half. When in the centre of a deep piece of woods, about half way from the station, two men stepped out of the bushes, and, pointing a revolver at his head, ordered him to throw up his hands, which he was not long in doing. After ransacking his pockets and taking his money and valuables they stripped him of his overcoat, and told him to run home. Mr. Zabriskie lost no time in obeying the command, and reached home out of breath. It is thought that the highwaymen are the same that held up C. C. sided in the criminal trials with two lay judges, and in spite of the opposition of his associates, Judge Lippincott succeeded in sending the whole crew to jail.

Those were parlous days for decent government. A desperate and unscrupulous ring controlled the local government in Jersey City and dictated the State appointments for that section. They produced majorities to order at primaries and elections, and self-respecting men were powerless against them. The Senate investigation of 1830 had demonstrated that at least 5,000 fraudulent ballots had been cast at the election for Governor in 1839. The proof was so palpable as to leave no loophole for denial. Yet it was only by extraordinary energy and firmness that indictments against the sixty-seven election officers were secured.

The indicted men and the bosses behind them fought for delay, but Judge Lippincott insisted on having the trials pushed. When the defendants were convicted and promptly sentenced appeals were taken to the Supreme Court. They were allowed out on bail, and their masters foisted them upon the public service in Jersey City as clerks, inspectors and so forth.

The Supreme Court upheld Judge Lippincott, but

TORY OF THE STATE. Now that New-Jersey is to have a Republican Governor again there is considerable speculation among the uninformed as to how many Governors the Republican party has succeeded in electing in this State. There have been four in all. The first was William A Newell, chosen in 1856. His successor was Charles S. Olden, Republican, elected in 1859. The last Republican Governor was Marcus L. Ward, elected in

The Republican organization came into existence on the anti-slavery issue, and it may be said with propriety that it was the advocate of the down-trod-den and oppressed-the party of freedom-it stood on his historical tour through the State, and upon Mr. Lincoln's platform that "the Nation could no longer remain half slave and half free; it either must be all slave or all free."

In that memorable campaign of 1856, on the ticket with General John C. Fremont and William L. Dayton, William A. Newell was carried to the Gover-nor's chair. He proved an excellent Governor. After the expiration of his term Governor Newell was sent to the House of Representatives for three consecutive terms from the IId Congressional District. During his service in Congress he became a favorite with President Lincoln, and was the President's family physician when Willie Lincoin died at the White House. Dr. Newell was afterward appointed Governor of Washington Territory by President Hayes; since the expiration of his term of office in that far Western State, he has resided in Olympia, its capital, where he is now practising medicine. Although advanced in years, he still retains much of his early vigor.

Governor Charles S. Olden, who followed Dr. Newell, was the Governor under whose administration our first New-Jersey regiments were enlisted and equipped for the civil war. He was very popular with the soldiers, and governed the State loyally at a very trying period in our history.

At the close of the war, in 1855, Marcus 1. Ward was made Governor largely by the votes of the returned soldiers, with whom he was known as the "soldiers' friend" because of the sympathy and interest he had manifessed for them in repeated visits to the camp and field with substantial aid for those who were fighting the battles of the country. His administration of State affairs met with public approval. Both Olden and Ward are now deceased.

Thirty-nine years will have elapsed since the first Republican Governor, William A. Newell, took the oath of office in the State House at Trenton, and thirty years since the last Republican Governor, Marcus L. Ward, was sworn, when Governor-elect John W. Griggs is inducted into office on the 21st of January next.

John W. Griggs is inducted into office on the 21st of January next.
Governor Griggs will be one of the youngest men ever chosen to so important a position in this State, being a little beyond forty-six years of age, but he will prove one of the ablest in the long line of distinguished citizens who have attained to this extinguished citizens who have attained to this extailed station. Thoroughly acquainted with State affairs, he will come to the executive chair with a knowledge of the laws and the people possessed by few of his predecessors. His administration will be on broad lines-able, economical, fearless, impartial, unostentatious.—Ex-Senator Nichols in The Bridgeton News.

The first team is making a proud record for itself, and is fast gaining the ground lost last year.

Jackson, centre rush, and J. Jackson, at right guard, are firm and strong in their positions, and Oakes at left guard is the strongest man on the line, and has yet to be outplayed in his position.

Captain Selbert plays right tackle, and is a good all-around player. He has played in every position on the team with great credit, and two years ago was the centre rush. Hague, left tackle, puts up a game that is sure to win approval, and A. Barnes, at right end, is a tower of strength, and a great defender, while Williams, at left end, is as good an end as Glen Ridge ever had, and his all-around playing qualities are only second to those of Captain Selbert.
